

Principal's Message

The quality of education will depend on the quality of its gurus/teachers and it is a known fact that teachers touch eternity, one never knows where their influence stops. Hence, to attain better quality in teaching, they too need continuous trainings and orientations, enrichment of the methodologies, updates on the changing scenario of the education. Keeping in view the importance of teachers we did set up our own teacher training institutes named as School of Education and Research (SOE&R), MIT Art, Design & Technology University, Pune. These are managed by highly qualified and dedicated in-house master trainers, researchers, who develop and execute the modules in teacher training to train the aspirant teachers as well as in-service teachers. This teacher training unit was also empanelled to Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) to train their in-service CBSE teachers PAN India. We were also affiliated to Cambridge International Examinations (CIE), to deliver certificate and diploma courses in teaching learning and educational leadership.

We at School of Education and Research (SOE&R), of MIT-ADTU have understood the necessity to have an inclusive, diverse work force to cater to the needs of the education sector and this has to be followed by all the other industries as well.

I believe that excellence could only be achieved with diligence, scruples and dedication. Hence I expect that my teacher trainees to accept every challenge with an ease and go ahead with their work to reach the set goals. I would like all the teacher trainees to avow with the words by Swami Vivekananda, thus – “I take up one idea at a time, make that one idea my life; dream of it; think of it; live on that idea and just leave every other idea alone”. This is the way to success.

“Nahi Jnanena Sadrusham” – Nothing is equivalent to knowledge.
